

HOW DO WE MOVE FORWARD?

Invisible Fire

By Dorian Frith

Society tells them
don't cry young man
for those tears are traces of vulnerability
your strength is in silent pain.
Pain that's left to stain your trust
your love
and your foolish pride.
Your weaknesses came to this world with you.

The question is
will u leave with them young man?
Or will they forever be Invisible Fire dying to be liberated for the sake of a Nation
that needs more men to speak?

Black man, rise the picture.
They're trying to paint.
Is your strength being obsolete?
Kings of this earth give righteousness back.
Your dance of warrior stop the daily lost of your way.
Be no longer afraid to show the world
your hurt stand outside of your darkness.

As the moon and be filled with the passion to celebrate the fact that you're a black man
living in a country built off lies...
